

We look forward to welcoming you at 16th Congress of the European Society of Pediatric Otorhinolaryngology 20 – 23 May 2023

Liverpool can't wait to welcome friends and colleagues to a fabulous ESPO 2023.

The academic programme includes 350 speakers from over 35 countries and will be truly special. The whole of pediatric ORL- from the esoteric to the mundane- will be covered. The focus is on how you can use the latest developments in science and technology to work for better day-to-day care of your patients and their families. The emphasis on practical clinical issues continues with a state-of-the art 'Simulation centre' on site, where delegates can work on models to hone their skills in tracheostomy, airway endoscopy, cochlear implantation and a whole range of ORL procedures in a safe, supervised environment.

In a 'first' for ESPO a parallel 'stream' on 'Innovation and Education'- heavily influenced by our junior colleagues- will run throughout the three days. Expect lively discussions on topics such as social media, digital healthcare, robotics, artificial intelligence, telemedicine, managing your career, looking after yourself and your team, and maybe a few surprises including some pointers from patients and families that will make you think about your practice.

Two airports- Manchester International and Liverpool John Lennon- ensure easy connections to Europe and beyond. Regularly voted the best congress venue in Europe the hotels, restaurants and the local attractions of the magnificent waterside are all within a few kilometres of the conference centre. The city is compact - perfect for a global conference such as ESPO - just pack a pair of sandals!

It's not all academia! We have a super social programme. You can air-guitar to some old Beatles music, or even visit Beatles haunts if you are a true fan, and football fanatics may wish to visit Anfield, home of the many-time champions of Europe, Liverpool FC.

We have a reputation as the UK's most friendly and welcoming venue, and our fabulous team can't wait to share the joys of the city with you.

Bookmark the website which we will update regularly, and don't forget to pack those sandals!

See you in May 2023.
